The story is set in the Mughal Empire and depicts the story of Shah Jahan and his wife, Mumtaz Mahal, who are separated while she gives birth to their ninth child, Prince Salim. They eventually reunite when she dies and Jahan builds a monument for her. It was released on 2 February 2005, and was a box office success. Plot In 1632, Shah Jahan (Kabir Bedi), the emperor of the Mughal Empire and his wife, Mumtaz Mahal (Sonya Jehan), are celebrating the birth of their ninth child, Prince Salim, and enjoying their lives together. They discuss the future, the survival of their family, and the impending death of Jahan's father, Emperor Shahryar (Manish Sharma). The celebrations are cut short when Shahryar dies. Jahan's mother, Empress Mumtaz Mahal (Benazir Lal), takes Jahan aside and tells him that Shahryar intended for him to be his successor, but he had a premonition of Shahryar's death, so he will be the next emperor. Jahan is inspired by Shahryar's will, and in order to succeed him, he plans to persuade Mumtaz Mahal to give up her love for the Sufi mystic Khuda Bux and join him in his amorous life. He is successful, and she becomes the Empress Mumtaz Mahal, a title that is conferred on her with much pomp and show. Jahan finds a Sufi mystic named Khuda Bux's influence over her soothing. Meanwhile, Mumtaz Mahal goes to her lover, who turns out to be her sister's husband, and Jahan, after much persuasion, goes to him and requests him to stop his affair with his wife. Mumtaz Mahal begs him not to let her husband know, so he agrees. But after she discovers that her husband had already been aware of the affair, she becomes bitter, hates Jahan and rejects him, so Jahan thinks that he will not be able to ascend the throne. Jahan convinces 82157476af
